Off-campus housing aid

by WILLIAM OWENS

There's a new housing aid program in the process of emerging on campus this year which will, if established, provide students with information leading to off-campus housing, according to ASI Vice Pres. Denny Johnson.

The new housing aid program will attempt to assist any student desiring information concerning the rent, floor space, and the requirements of residency for any house or apartment renting to students.

Until now, the only housing aid organization on campus was the Student Housing Association, which dealt only with those students desiring information leading to on-campus living.

"The new program is needed," says Johnson, "because there's a lot of students and a lot of housing (off-campus), but no coordinating agency in between. Students have a right to a housing office concerned with the off-campus housing that is available."

The new housing aid program, which would require the hiring of a full time secretary and part time student directors, is expected to cost approximately $10,000. Thus far, fundings from ASI and the Student Affairs Division total $800.

Johnson said that the ASI has, and will, help out (the new program) as much as possible, but "the administration will just have to give a little more money for the program." Johnson also indicated that the city may also be able to aid the new program financially.

The program will also attempt to coordinate the efforts of the Student's Tenants Association and the Student Housing Association. As it stands now, there is relatively little that an evicted student can do. It is hoped that the new program will be effective to the extent that, given a 24 hour notice for eviction, a student might receive legal aid through the STA, and housing aid through the new program or the Student Housing Association, and not have to worry about living in the streets.

7 candidates to speak out

Seven candidates for the San Luis Obispo County Board of Supervisors will speak to the concerned public Thursday from 7:30 to 10:00 p.m. in College Union Room 220.

Speakers slated for this event are Emmons Blake and Dr. Richard Krejca from District 5; Ann Butterworth Caldwell and Hans Hellmann from District 1; and Kurt Kupper, Dr. George Harper, and Clei Whelchel from the third District.

Thursday's program, sponsored by Speakers' Forum, will be conducted by Carl Wallace, member of the E.O.P. organization, and will provide those attending the precious chance to find out where the candidates stand on the meaty issues, and to ask questions of personal interest.

BART crash: injuries minor

Fremont, Calif. (UPI) — A sleek new Bay Area Rapid Transit District train Monday smashed into a sand barrier at 90 miles an hour, then dropped nosedown to a parking lot below, after failing to stop at the end of the line.

Five persons were hurt - none seriously - in the first accident on the $1.4 billion transit system which went into partial operation three weeks ago. The first car of the two-car train plowed through the sand embankment at the end of track, then plunged through a chain link fence and plowed its nose into an asphalt parking lot 10 feet below.

The $300,000 car ended up at a 20 degree angle, with its front end in the lot and the back end at track level. The second car remained on the track when the vehicles uncoupled.

The train attendant and four of six passengers in the first car suffered minor injuries. The seven passengers in the second car were unhurt.

A BART spokesman said the train, similar to one which President Nixon rode for nine minutes last Wednesday, failed to stop at the Fremont station, southern terminus of the 28-mile section of BART which opened Sept. 11.

An automatic device at the station, connected with the system's computerized controls in Oakland, was supposed to tell the train to stop. The train attendant had manual brakes which are designed to override the computer in case of an emergency.

BART officials, who said the cause of the wreck was under investigation, had not been able to talk with attendant Ella Palmer, 36, Oakland, the most seriously injured. Palmer suffered cuts, abrasions and possible internal injuries and was hospitalized overnight for tests.

Bike repair featured in CU workshop this year

The Campus Craft Center opens Thursday for its second season of workshops for students and faculty.

Ten workshops, ranging in price from $3 to $7, will be offered. The classes will meet in the Craft Center, located in the College Union, anywhere from four to 24 hours over the entire quarter.

Four classes; weaving, sketching, bike repair and stained glass window making, have been added to the old list of lapidary, ceramics, photography, jewelry, leather, and pottery instruction. There will also be two special classes in October and November. The October sessions will deal in the art of making sand candles on two Saturday afternoons and will cost $2 a person. On two weekdays in November, students can learn to silk screen their own Christmas cards for $3 a person.

Besides instructing, the Craft Center is a store, selling hand-made items for students or faculty members. The center receives 20 percent and the seller 80 percent of the listed price. Any interested people should contact Maggie Wall, at 546-2721 or 544-0190.

Stuck without a ride?

Want to go home next weekend to see Mom and Dad (or someone else!) but you're stuck without wheels? Pick up the phone and call Student Roundhouse Services at 546-2014 and let them do the arranging for you.

ASI President Robin Baggett promised that Monday morning a volunteer staff at Roundhouse will begin supplying and coordinating rides for those students who leave Cal Poly going in all directions on the weekends. Rides during the week may also be available.

There will be a large map of California in the student government offices in the College Union. When you call and say you need a ride to Gilroy on Friday afternoon at 2 p.m., that information will be posted on the map until another student calls wanting a rider going in your direction and leaving at the same time.

Rides will be arranged going both to and from your destination at the times you need. Roundhouse will call and give the information you need. There is no longer a need to search every bulletin board on campus for a current card on a rider that may turn out to be out of your way.

Baggett recalled, "Denny and I advocated this ride program back in March or April during our campaign, and now that students are in the dorms needing to commute the program will begin."

Baggett feels that "calling is the whole key." Make a quick call and you may have arranged a ride home for yourself. The ride program represents one more facet of the worthiness of student government.

Hillside 'P' maintained

The "P" on the side of the hill will continue to be maintained by Rally Committee for as long as the majority of students are in favor of it, according to Greg Schultz, Rally Committee special events chairman.

In a survey conducted last May by Rally Committee, an overwhelming majority of students questioned were in favor of maintaining the "P". According to Schultz, questionnaires were distributed to all clubs and committees on campus last spring, and the response was strongly in favor of preserving the "P".

The survey was conducted after the "P" became the object of controversy and vandalism last year. Those in opposition to the structure included ecology groups and people concerned with the appearance of the hill. Most responses which favored the "P" mentioned the structure's involvement in tradition and school spirit.

The committee is now planning to repair the excessive damage done by vandals to the structure last year and to maintain it indefinitely.

Students pay price but miss the show

The Gay Student Union battle packed the courtroom, but the people there for the most part weren't the students who are paying the price of the case.

Close to $3,000 has been set aside out of ASI fees to support the GSU suit for campus recognition. That's almost 25 cents from each student, a fair price for a circus admission ticket. Too bad so few turned up to catch the show.

Edward Belasco, state deputy attorney general and counsel for the state in the case, kept tight control in the beginning with the showmanship of any good ringmaster. The almost visible spotlight followed him as he paced around the table, prodding ASI lawyer Richard Carsel to stipulate agreed upon points.

He then verbally picked up a chair and whip and drove Carsel into a corner of embarrassment.

"We can stipulate the procedure of gaining recognition, can't we?" said Belasco.

Carsel hesitated - he wanted to question witnesses on that.

"Well, we can stipulate it and you can go ahead and cross-examine about it," said Belasco.

Another hesitation-no, Carsel did not want to stipulate it.

"But it's written down here in the interrogatories," Belasco said. "Why can't we just stipulate?"

"Because I haven't read through all that stuff yet," Carsel blushing admitted.

But Carsel made up the lost brownie points when the testimony began, while Belasco's performance went steadily downhill.

Belasco asked witness after witness what sexual acts homosexuals participate in--apparently, he was having difficulty keeping anal and oral copulation separated in his mind.

His only other courtroom activity was an occasional, "I object on the grounds of..." which was about as far as he would get before the judge said sustained or overruled.

Carsel put the trained seals through their paces, directing them as they tossed the ball from nose to nose. Pres. Robert Kennedy said he delegates his authority to recognize clubs to Dean Everett Chandler. Chandler sees the bylaws for new groups after Activities Planning Center Director John Lawson checks them out. And Lawson found that the buck-excuse me, ball--has to end up somewhere.

Between the three of them, starting with Kennedy in January 1972 and not reaching Lawson until September, an administrative bulletin change somehow escaped everyone's attention. And, of course, that change is now the backbone of the administration's denial of recognition. Too bad no one told the GSU about it earlier.

As the entertainment came to an end, the judge asked for written summations of each side's arguments.

Included in the case is a demand for the state to pay the attorney fees if the ASI wins. Unfortunately, the student loses either way--directly through his student body fees or through the multitude of taxes he pays to the state.

Plan to attend the finale in November. Unless you're a gay student, it may be the only way you ever get your money's worth.

ASI offers no-cost legal aid

by CATHY CARRIER

The Legal Aid Committee gives students legal advice at no cost. The idea for legal aid was initiated during former ASI Pres. Pete Evans' 1971-72 Administration but never got off the ground.

ASI Pres. Robin Baggett said he and Danny Johnson, ASI vice-president, thought that legal aid was "another student service we feel ASI should provide."

After a month of organizing, there are now six people on the committee to handle student legal needs. Baggett said anyone interested is encouraged to get involved in the committee.

"The more people there are, the more effective it can be," he said. "Students need to work together."

The committee meets at 2 p.m. on Wednesdays in the ASI offices, but if a student needs to he can call Roundhouse, 546-2011, anytime to get assistance.

The Legal Aid Committee gives advice and alternatives that a person may take. According to Baggett any advice given is "not fool proof or valid, because we're not practicing law."

Students who go to Legal Aid sign a disclaimer that states, in part, "the legal referral service currently provided by the Associated Students, Inc., of the California Polytechnic State University is not intended to be a substitute for professional legal counseling."

The committee does, however, take the cases to any of four attorneys who are specialists in certain fields and they review the cases, see if the committee gave the right advice, and determine if the student has a case or not.

The legal aid program is run by volunteers at no cost to the students.

Baggett said he plans to expand the committee in the future if students legal needs require greater service. According to the ASI president, many schools have "outstanding" legal aid service but they cost money. He said this campus' service is the "most efficient and effective way to run the program at no cost."

Birth control

"Birth Control and Pregnancy" will be the topic of a speech by Dr. Arnold tonight in room 129 of Dexter Library at 8 p.m.

The speech is sponsored by the Poly Student Wives Club, and is part of their regular meeting. The club membership consists of wives of Cal Poly students. Poly wives interested in joining the club should attend this meeting.

Project tries to catch staff

A standing committee of Student Affairs Council which will be maintaining the Catch-22 program is now forming. The first meeting will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in CU 218.

According to Skip Kelley, the originator of the plan, Catch-22 is essentially an information system which will allow students to find out what is possible in student government at this school.

Kelley has compiled and indexed each law significant to this university system. His index includes all laws and regulations authorized by the trustees and chancellor, the college administration and the ASI.

The purpose of the program is to upgrade the effectiveness and efficiency of the operational committees of the ASI by rapidly providing accurate information concerning all possibilities.

The only qualifications required for committee membership are student standing, interest, and the desire to be involved.

Aiding transfer students Christian rally shares message with students

by BRUCE ULLMAN

Dr. Robert G. Valpey, dean of the School of Engineering and Technology, has been appointed to a state-wide committee whose purpose is to make life easier for the junior college transfer.

"It's a pretty traumatic experience for a transferring student to discover that Bang!—he loses all of his credits of work at a community college," said Valpey, referring to the problem the committee plans to tackle.

Termed the Ad Hoc Committee on Technology Education of the Articulation Conference, the committee's purpose is to assure that junior college students in technical majors are properly prepared for their transfers to four-year colleges.

"I think it's an opportunity for me to serve the state and students in improving the relationships among the various sectors in technical education," said Valpey.

Recently, the conference has been expanded to include the private sector of colleges in the state.

Valpey is also a member and past chairman of the Articulation Conference's Engineering Liason Committee. This committee's function is to decide exactly what technical courses will and will not receive transfer credit to a four-year institution.

Valpey came to this university in July after having been dean of engineering at California State University, Fullerton, for several years. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois, where he earned his doctorate, as well as the University of Colorado, the U.S. Military Academy and Cornell University.

In addition to being a former member of the engineering faculties at both the U.S. Military Academy and the U.S. Air Force Academy, Valpey was the director of the U.S. Air Force Launch Vehicle Section and Advanced Programs Section at Wright Air Development Center in Ohio.

Mind medicine

It's a fast-paced, complex, frustrating world. Students find this out sooner or later, and many of them are unable to live a normal life as a result of the fears, anxieties, and tensions they develop.

If you are one of those people, the good folks in the Counseling Center are just waiting to make an effort to help you out.

Qualified, licensed psychologists are immediately available, with no appointment, to provide valuable help, Monday through Thursday, from 7 to 11 p.m., in CU Room 214.

An estimated fifteen-hundred people gathered in Mustang Stadium last Friday night for a County Christian Rally, sponsored by this university's Christian Coalition.

The invocation was given by ASI President, Robin Baggett, and hymns were sung by the sixty-four voices of the combined youth choirs of the Nazarene and Grace churches.

"You Can Help Change The World" was the subject of the speech given by the featured speaker, Dr. Bill Bright, president and founder of Campus Crusade for Christ, International. Citing the account in the Gospel of Luke where angels heralding the birth of Christ told a group of startled shepherds that they had "the most joyful news," Bright told his audience that the news of Christ is "most joyful" because, "God became man and dwelt among us," and "man, while yet in his sins, received the gift of God."

Christianity," he explained, "is not a religion; it's a relationship with Christ... (which)... enables us to have peace of heart."

As a searchlight on the horizon scanned the heavens, the stadium lights were turned off to enhance the effect of a candlelighting ceremony that closed the rally.

Cross country depth ruins Fresno State in season opener, 22-35

by CHUCK SAMS

The Mustang cross country team won their first meet last weekend against the Fresno State University Bulldogs. Even though Fresno's Kevin Daugherty won the individual title, the Mustang Harriers displayed great overall balance by placing the next four men. The final score was 22-35 (low score wins).

Terry Lamb, a Garden Grove product, led the assault by running the six mile distance in 32:27. Lamb is a J.C. transfer from Santa Ana and the meet was his first competitive effort for the Mustangs. Following Lamb was junior Dale Horton (32:33) from El Cajon.

Coach Larry Bridges was very pleased with the surprise performance of Terry Unstead. Unstead, from Fillmore, showed great improvement over last year while placing a strong fourth with 32:39. Rich Walling very impressively held off a challenge by Fresno's Ken Adams to place fifth at 32:49 and round out a solid group of placers.

Each week Bridges will select a Runner of the Week based on the athletes' competitive attitude and over all placement. This week Terry Lamb will receive that award for his most impressive effort at Fresno.

Next Saturday at 11 a.m. an open run covering 8.2 miles will be held here. Several clubs from California will send representatives, one being the West Valley Track Club, who placed second in the nation last year in the National AAU cross country finals in San Diego.

RATs wanted

Representatives of Cal Poly's Recreation and Activities Committee (RAT) announced last week that new members were needed for that organization.

Meetings are held every Tuesday at 7 p.m. in CU 202 A.

Polo team loses a pair

by MIKE SMITH

After handing Hancock College a big defeat last week, the Mustang water polo team came up against two hard hitting opponents and were dealt two injuring blows last weekend by Cal State Hayward University and Stanford University, 8-5, 11-4, respectfully.

Hayward came on strong in the first half, popping in six goals early to take a commanding lead. "Although the Mustangs came back with a good third quarter drive, it just wasn't good enough," according to coach Dick Anderson.

The game was even more costly for the Mustangs as junior ace Bill Stanton received an elbow in the cheek which required four stitches to close. Team mate Al Anderson was also hampered by a knee injury.

Jim Clemons of Hayward was top scorer of the game with three goals.

On Saturday, Stanford University stopped by on their way back home from UCSB, dealing the Mustangs their second loss of the season, 11-4. Starting without the help of Anderson and Stanton, the locals fell to a 5-3 halftime deficit. "The game seemed close at this time," according to coach Anderson.

In the second half the Cardinals punched in six more goals to the Mustangs' one. Poor ball handling and missed shots were the soft spots for the Mustangs as Stanford took advantage of it with their points.

Coach Anderson emptied his bench in the second half to give the reserves a chance to see more action. "They made an aggressive stand and passed the ball well but couldn't find the hole for a score," he said.

The Mustangs travel to the University of California at Santa Barbara Saturday.

Track meeting

Mustang track and field coach Steve Simmons has scheduled a team meeting for today at 6 p.m. in MPE 218.

Girl shines in 'male' sports

Paso Robles, Calif. (UPI) — Nine-year-old Bonnie Mac Curdy has scored a double win for women's lib. First, she beat all the boys in her age group in her home town of Atascadero in the annual punt-pass-kick football competition this weekend. Then she went to nearby Paso Robles, where she out threw that town's 9-year-old boys in the annual cowchip tossing contest.
